During the quarter, Berkshire Hathaway performed strongly; in US dollar terms the value of NYSE: BRK.A and BRK.B increased by 9.5% while the AUD strengthened marginally. Our UK portfolio continues to perform well, posting +8.3% over the quarter (in local currency), outperforming the FTSE which increased by 4.2% over the same period.

ECONOMIC COMMENTARY

By year end, global equities were stronger as investors focused on economic resilience and corporate earnings, despite the ongoing volatility caused by Covid-19. The rising Covid case numbers seemed to become less of a concern for investors as the new variants seem to result in less severe symptoms. Across the world, service-based sectors appear to be losing their positive momentum, while manufacturing sentiment has continued to remain resilient despite supply constraints and rising input prices. The strength in corporate earnings outlooks, combined with easing supply chain pressures have seen investors remain positive as we head into the new year where monetary policy normalisation and inflation issues are becoming of central importance.

In the US, by quarter-end, equities posted robust gains as the economy remained stable with unemployment falling to 4.2% and corporate earnings remained robust. Bond markets have priced for monetary policy normalisation, with short-dated bond yields rising more than their longer-dated counterparts indicating concerns regarding resilience to interest rate rises and sustained inflation. The S&P500 posted +10.6% while the Nasdaq posted +8.3%.

In Europe, strong corporate profits and economic resilience resulted in equities posting some gains over the quarter despite Omicron concerns. While some countries in the Eurozone reintroduced restrictions, these had little effect on markets. In the UK, equities performed well, following a similar path to other developed markets which recouped mid-quarter losses as investors received encouraging news regarding Omicron. The FTSE posted +4.2%, the CAC +9.7%, the DAX was +4.1% and the Euro Stoxx was +6.2%.

In Australia, investors have been acutely focused on the policy settings by the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) with growth related sectors underperforming. The RBA made no changes to monetary policy during the quarter; however, it did indicate a possible re-evaluation in February. The RBA noted improvements in the economy, with unemployment falling to 4.6% while housing prices appear to be moderating. The ASX All Ordinaries posted +2.0% for the quarter, ASX 200 +1.5%, the Midcap 50 +5.5% and the Small Ordinaries was +1.6%, respectively. The AUD appreciated during the quarter, posting +0.6% against the US Dollar (72.7 US cents), +0.1% against the Pound (53.7 pence), and +2.4% against the Euro (63.9 cents).
